

COOKIE POLICY

EPSCO (CYPRUS) LIMITED (Registration Number HE67042) and/or its subsidiaries and/or its affiliates provide services in the Maritime Industry (hereinafter referred to as "Epsco Group"). This Cookie Policy sets out how Epsco Group uses cookies on its website www.epscocy.com.

Browsers like Internet Explorer, Firefox, Google Chrome or equivalents, are software used to access any webpage and navigate through them.

Cookies are small amounts of text that websites send to your browser to help it navigate through the pages, which often include an anonymous unique identifier. When you visit a website, a computer asks your PC or device for permission to store this text file on your computer or device and access information from it. They enable the website owner to distinguish you from other users of the website.

Information gathered through Cookies include the date and time of visits, how you are using the website, whether you have been to the site before and what site referred you to the web page.

Our website uses performance cookies to monitor how the website is used. All information is stored in an anonymous form and no personal data is captured by this site automatically.

We use performance cookies on our website to:

1. Help us improve the website by understanding what pages are popular;
2. Identify and correct errors;
3. Provide statistics on how our website is used so we can improve the site.

This means that we may collect information about your computer, including your IP address, operating system and browser type.

Cookies cannot be executed as code or used to deliver viruses and they cannot enable us to access your hard drive. We cannot read any information on your hard drive even if we store cookies there.

The data generated through cookies in our website can be used for various purposes including the following:

Strictly necessary or essential

These cookies are essential in order to enable your navigation around the website and use its features, such as accessing secure areas of the website. Essential cookies are automatically placed on your computer or device when you access a website as they are exempt from the requirement of consent under the GDPR. However, if you decide to block essential cookies, some aspects of the website may not work properly, and you may not be able to access all or part of the website.

Performance

These cookies collect information about how visitors use a website, for instance which pages visitors go to most often and if they receive error messages. They are used to improve how a website works in future versions.

Functional

These cookies allow the website to remember choices you make such as username, language or region you are in and provide a more enhanced personal experience.

We do not permit any third parties to advertise on our website, but we cannot control advertisers that are allowed by internet service providers to advertise whilst you are browsing on the internet.

Consent

We are required by law to obtain your consent for all types of cookies that we place other than those that are “strictly necessary”.

Retention Period

The information we collect through cookies is kept on our encrypted servers for a period of one (1) month.

How can you manage your cookies

You can learn more about how to manage your cookies by visiting the Help function of your browser or the settings of your mobile device. If you do not want to receive cookies while browsing our website, you can modify your browser and/or device settings so that it notifies you when receiving cookies as further set out below. Please note that any amendments done on your browser or device in relation to cookies, will not only affect cookies from www.epscopy.com but also all other websites you visit, unless steps are taken to specify from which websites you wish to block the cookies from. If you decide to block cookies, any preferences associated with that website will be lost.

Also, on our website through our cookies form, we provide you the option to enable or disable non-essential Cookies. For example, you are able to allow only the processing of necessary Cookies and restrict the processing of performance and/or functional cookies.
